Speaker: Mr. Ravi Krishnan V, (Alumni NCP), Technical manager, Quality assurance and regulatory affairs, Wipro Ltd., Bangalore.

Students offered training: Bpharm students (39 students)

Mode of presentation: Online mode.

Date: 30th December 2020

The screenshot shows a webinar interface. The main slide is titled "Career Scope for Regulatory Affairs" in pink text. It contains five bullet points in red text:

- Regulatory Affairs within the biomedical, pharma and health care sector is a relatively young, multidimensional profession that is international in scope. RA professionals come from a variety of disciplines such as law, academics, industrial research and medicine. It is a promising field for young professionals because it offers a multitude of jobs and opportunities for development.
- The modern view of RA as a dynamic, business oriented unit, focused on getting products to the market with a commercially viable label as quickly as possible is a visionary and competitive paradigm.
- With increasing outsourcing of jobs to India coupled with flamboyant salaries, burgeoning technically educated middle class proficient in English, the regulatory affairs industry is poised for rapid growth.
- Regulatory Affairs, therefore, promises to be an interesting career option in India for pharmacy graduates.
- It will definitely pave the way for greater development and integration of careers with the global workforce and improve the competencies of graduates in the country.

On the right side of the slide, there is a vertical list of participant names: "LINS MARY JOY" and "anriya". Above the names is a small circular logo of Nirmala College of Pharmacy. Below the names are two small profile pictures of participants.

Summary of the program: Welcome address was delivered by Dr. Badmanaban R, Principal. During his session, Mr. Ravi Krishnan explained the increasing importance and opportunities of regulatory affairs in pharmacy and medical devices. He also shared his experiences in the field. The program concluded by a vote of thanks by Dr. Prasanth B.

which was aimed to be taught during the entire session. At the end of session, representatives from all groups were allowed to express their understandings on the activities performed by their group. The students were also encouraged to express their thoughts and feelings freely without any fear. The session was a highly impressive one and helped many students to overcome their fear of Self Expression. The session ended with National Anthem.
